ISHWAR PURI: "You have a good friend sitting here, Mark, who is also interested in electronics. Yes. Tesla's work ... When I first came to this country, I met one of the students of Tesla. He was working on developing the machine that would work only on this natural power of gravity and so on, an un-ending machine, something like that, as Tesla had predicted can be made. So the vibrations that exist here have not been fully tapped, even in electronics. For example, the brainwaves in the body have not been utilized, although you can take pictures of them today and pictures have been taken. They have taken pictures of the brain's electrical circuits moving. When you think, you think a thought and you see the synaptic curve that it takes, where it moves. When you have intuitive feeling, you see the lights going up at several places without a connection. I have seen pictures of those.

So we have not even utilized fully the knowledge that we have of what is going on in the waves of the brain, and outside. Kinetic energy has not been used fully here, but will be used even in the physical world and you will see that we will have transmitters employing our natural waves. We will have ... All this equipment we are seeing here will become obsolete. We are going to use something so minute and so natural.

I had a very strange experience once. I asked Great Master ... I was very young, you see at that time. I was interested like you are in these things. I asked Great Master, "How far will things change? Will this planet remain the same? Or will things move in the next 2000 years? Can I have a glimpse, just for a moment into 4000 A. D. of this planet?" He said, "You can have a little glimpse, but don't be carried away by it. Just have a glimpse." So, by His grace, He gave me a glimpse! I normally don't share my experiences, but I can share this one because of your interest.

Unlike what people expect, that they will save this planet, in 4000A.D. this planet is a garbage can and we're all living outside in artificial satellites. All the homes are out there and all the garbage that we create from there is dumped here. People are born there and they die and the bodies are dumped on this planet – very horrible scene to see. I felt so bad.

All the communications are electronically being done. Electronics, not any spiritual thing. And using the waves that exist in human beings, and waves that are created by new equipment.

All the universities have become obsolete. All knowledge can be transferred at equal levels to all beings through computer chips inside you and no computer chips are needed - your own brain cells are being used for that. It was very strange experience.

The people living think we are the most primitive people who are living today thinking we are so advanced in science. They think we were so stupid to build roads to drive on the road when we can easily fly above. Easy mobile planes that can fly in the air. I'm talking physical things. And they are surprised that we had universities to teach people when the entire knowledge can be transferred wirelessly even to the brain cells. Everybody can be equally educated. Imagine a society of that kind living in several universes around the planet and other planets too.

So, the fact that electronics developed to that extent in as little as 2000 years, shows what the future is. You are on the right track to enjoy this game. Take it like a game and enjoy it
