

PERSONALITY OF THE SOUND CURRENT

POSTED BY FREDRIK ERICSSON

As we proceed inward through our spiritual journey we will find a very loving experience at a certain point. The sound current that we have practiced listening to for a while has a very beautiful "personality". And why do I say "personality"? Because as we pay more and more attention to the sound current we will see that the sound is not merely a sound, It will show itself to have much more in it than just a sound. When we have not had the experience of the sound current yet, and just have heard the description through explanation, then we naturally apply reason and logic to make sense of the explanation being given to us of the sound current....

Please remember! We are talking about a sound that emanates directly from our true home, Sach khand. A sound that holds the power and resonance of the pure soul in its totality. All the way from the totality of consciousness it permeates down to the physical plane and can be heard, right here, with the practice of concentration of attention within the third eye center.

Isn't it amazing that such a method exist that anyone can practice and learn how to concentrate attention within one self and find out exactly who you are. Not only have the experience of knowing who you are beyond the mind, but also how to have the experience of totality of consciousness beyond individuation into Oneness of creation. And this while you are in a human form, at a wakeful state, having the experience of free will, choosing to go within one self by that experience of free will. What a perfect setup of creation done by the creator him self. Amazing!

So right from where we are in this physical world we can listen to this sound current by practice and start a beautiful spiritual journey within our self...

Why mentioning "a beautiful journey within"?

Because the explanation given by these Perfect Living Master's that we should only rely upon our own experience as evidence of this journey within, are indeed very practical, self-reliable, self-evident and a very true experience all the way back to our true home Sach Khand.... And not only that!

By going within you will discover one more fundamental thing. And that is.....that anyone initiated by a Perfect Living Master can go within them selves and find out the true nature of the self through this spiritual journey within. And even this part you can clearly see your self through your own inner experience.....

Now this is why this spiritual journey is so beautiful ✨🌸✨

The sound current is really the life force of the soul ringing inside us at every moment of our life. This Shabad-sound makes us alive and kicking. It comes from beyond the mind, and can take us back beyond the mind...

Now! Some say that the sound current ends at the causal plane....which is true. But how do one explain that the same sound you were listening to, that never breaks, now starts to take the shape and form of light instead. A refined kind of power with more fine-tuned light as a result, instead of sound. Yet a light so enormously bright inside that we can't even imagine how much light our own soul inside is carrying 🙏❤️

The self-discovery of our own true nature inside is the most beautiful journey one can undertake in one's life. To be initiated by a Perfect Living Master is the greatest gift. To be able to follow through this inner journey by HIS grace and guidance alone is the most valuable discovery of all. To discover the true self within....is the most precious thing ever to discover and validate by one's own experience...

Please remember also that we are talking about things that are beyond our mind here, beyond time and space, beyond logic and reason. Beyond any description what so ever. Yet these Perfect Living Master's by their loving kindness for us try to explain and share these inner experiences for us in such a beautiful way that we really feel like going within our selves and find out about this journey being explained to us. Beautiful)
